Unity is Strength.

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 30.—At a dinner here to the Pan-Americans, the delegates were entertained by speeches, among them being one from United States delegate Henderson, who said: "We propose to build a line of railroads through to the Isthmus of Panama. We are going to have immense lines of steamers running from every port in America and landing at every important port in Central and South America. Give us a union of the Americas, and for peace and for war we shall be invincible."

Dr. Silva of Columbia said the time had arrived when the Americas, North, South and Central, should draw closer together and be bound by closer ties, not only of commerce and interest, but of brotherhood and love.

General Crook on Descriptions.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—General Crook, commanding the Division of the Missouri, in his annual report, gives prominence to the subject of desertions. He is of the opinion that if a soldier, after a reasonable term, could sever his connection with the military service by the payment of the amount which his enlistment and service had cost the Government, it would go far towards preventing desertion. He suggests a shortening of the term of service.

A Steamer's Mishap.

SEATTLE, W. T., Oct. 30.—Early this morning the steamer Washington struck a rock near Deception Pass and stove a great hole in her side. The vessel was immediately headed for the shore and sank in fifteen feet of water. The passengers collected on the upper deck and were saved. The steamer was afterwards raised and started for this city.

To Be Relieved.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30.—Admiral Kimberly, on his arrival at San Francisco from Honolulu on the Alert, will be relieved of the command of the Pacific squadron, in accordance with his own request, and orders were issued to-day notifying Commodore Brown, Commander at the Norfolk Navy Yard, to hold himself in readiness to take command.

WHY HE WANTED A PASS.

And Why a Railroad President Gave Him One.

Hank Vandenberg was a good man and weighed 250 pounds. He lived up in Saratoga county, N. Y., and it was remarked of him that he didn't see any reason why politics shouldn't pay. Hank had a way of throwing his head up and back like a horse reared up, and he was a check-rein, and though he didn't do it as often as the horse, he always did it when he said something. Hank was elected Sheriff of his county, and, as in the performance of the duties of that office he traveled a good deal on the cars, he concluded to ask for a pass. The Delaware & Hudson spanned Hank's shrewdness, and so to the headquarters of that road in Albany he hied and proffered his request in the following manner:

"Mr. President, the boys have elected me Sheriff up in Saratoga, and I just dropped in to get a pass over your road."

"But I do not see as that is a reason why I should give you a pass. Why do you want a pass?" answered the President.

"The fact is, Mr. President," said Hank, with his head high in the air, "I want a pass because I don't want to pay my fare."

He got it.

General Miles' Report.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 30.—The annual report of Brigadier-General Nelson A. Miles, commanding the Division of the Pacific, was made public to-day. He states there are 6,000 troops in this division, and that the administration of military affairs has been satisfactory. He declares that suitable and immediate appropriations should be made for the construction of buildings where it is advisable to locate troops in large garrisons, and states that points should be occupied near large bodies of Indians and on the Mexican and Canadian frontiers, and along the Pacific coast.

The General calls attention to the disproportionate appropriation for the one-fourth of the army serving in the Division of the Pacific during the past fifteen years, and he gives figures showing that the Divisions of the Atlantic and Missouri have in that time, for improvements, fortifications, etc., received $21,000,000, while the Division of the Pacific has received but $805,000. He recommends that $500,000 be appropriated for this division for the construction of quarters and barracks.

The report deals at some length with the subject of desertions and makes a number of recommendations, among them being that enlisted men who have served five years and passed the necessary examination be commissioned Second Lieutenants and receive honorable discharges if no vacancies are open for them.

The report closes with a long statement on the subject of coast defenses. The General says: "The condition of this coast is one to test the avarice and cupidity of any fourth-rate naval power on the globe, and that it could be occupied by any first-class naval power is a fact apparent to any thoughtful, well-informed citizen." It is estimated that it would cost $30,000,000 to put the coast in a proper condition of defense.

General Miles makes the following recommendations: That $250,000 be appropriated to secure the titles to strategic points necessary to be occupied for coast defense; that $1,000,000 be appropriated for the construction of a gun factory on the Pacific Coast, and that $25,000,000 be appropriated for the construction of the most improved and effective guns and war material.

The report of Major John I. Rodgers on the subject of coast defense is submitted with General Miles' report, and contains the following estimates of the cost of land defenses on the Pacific Coast: San Francisco, $15,000,000; Columbia river, $1,550,000; San Diego, $512,000; Puget Sound, $11,626,000; Sitka, $742,000.

Mrs. Mackay's Libel Suit.

LONDON, Oct. 31.—The action for libel brought by Mrs. John W. Mackay against the Manchester Examiner came up in the Court of the Queen's Bench to-day. In the libel complained of it was alleged that plaintiff was a poor widow with two children, and that she was employed as a washerwoman by Nevada miners when Mackay fell in love with her and married her. Plaintiff contends that she was not a lady by birth or education, and that she was not accustomed to association with persons of good position. Defendants admit the innuendo, but deny the second. Defendants had paid £10 into Court. The question before the Court to-day was whether the payment applied to the whole libel or to the innuendo admitted. The Court ruled that it applied only to that part of the libel admitted.

Declared a Draw.

PARIS, Oct. 31.—A match between Canon and Pietro, champion French wrestlers, took place last night. They wrestled over an hour, neither gaining any advantage over the other, and finally the referee declared the match a draw. Another match will take place on Friday.

Michael Davitt Complimented.

LONDON, Oct. 31.—Michael Davitt continued his speech to-day. He said Farragher, who has been clerk of the Land League, but who turned informer and testified for the Times, has been unable to prove the assertion made by Attorney-General Webster, that the League advanced money for the commission of outrages and crimes. Davitt regretted that all the Land League books had not been found. They disappeared during the confusion caused by, and consequent upon, the suppression of the League, but the National League books, which have been produced, revealed nothing unconstitutional. He denounced the publication of alleged fac-simile letters by the Times as an attempt at the moral assassination of the political character of public men, unparalleled by the action of any political party in the history of the country. He ridiculed the idea that the Times was not aware of Piggott's antecedents until he testified before the Commission.

When Davitt finished, Justice Hannen complimented him upon the ability displayed in his speech, and thanked him for the assistance he had given the Court.

Sir Henry James then began his speech in behalf of the Times.

The Telegraph Tariff.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—Postmaster-General Wanamaker to-day made public an order fixing the rates for telegraphic service for the government for the present year: Day messages not exceeding ten words, to be sent not exceeding 400 miles, ten cents, and half a cent extra for each word in excess of ten; over 400 and less than 1,000 miles, fifteen cents for ten words and three-fourths of a cent for each word in excess; for over 1,000 miles half a cent for each word is added to the 1,000-mile rate. Night messages, not exceeding twenty words, fifteen cents for all distances and half a cent extra for each word in excess of twenty.

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—President Norvin Green of the Western Union says the rates fixed by the Postmaster-General are below cost, but he is unprepared to say what action the company will take till after the meeting of the Executive Committee next Wednesday. The reduction from the old rates averages 33 per cent.

A Revolution-Treasure Hunters.

The revolutionists are holding their own, aided by other forces in the direction of the Mexican frontier.

An English company has offered $100,000 for the right to excavate for Montezuma's treasure.

Two Men Fatally Injured.

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 31.—At daybreak this morning the Chicago, Santa Fe & California vestibule train was derailed near Carrollton, Mo. All the coaches except the dining and sleeping cars were derailed. The expressman was fatally hurt, Thomas Beck of this city received fatal injuries, and there were about five slightly injured.

The Montana Count.

HELENA, Mont., Oct. 31.—Judge De Wolf has sustained the motion of the Democrats and has issued a peremptory order to have the canvassing board make out the returns of Tunnel precinct. A motion for an appeal has been filed and an application made for a stay of proceedings.

No Revolution.

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—General Barrillas, President of Guatemala, sends a telegram to Jacob Baiz, the Guatemalan Consul-General in this city, saying the reports of a revolution there are false.

Taken Unawares.

Unexpected causes for malaria exist everywhere. Alas, it is not only in the vicinity of your abode, a new location upon land filled in, but formerly overflowed or marshy, and causes far more occult than these produce the atmospheric miasma which constitutes the germ that, if inhaled, declares itself sick and from the safe, non-disappointing, cordial medicine, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which has for over a third of a century, and in every quarter of the globe, relieved the malaria stricken, and neutralized miasma in air and water. The Bitters instantly relieves the stomach, bowels and liver, repels incipient rheumatism, and remedies inaction of the kidneys and bladder. Appetite and sleep are improved, and the infirmities of age mitigated by its use.

Religious Intolerance.

TOPEKA, Kan., Oct. 31.—Adjutant-General Roberts received a telegram to-day notifying him of a riot at Axtell, Marshall county. A telegram from the Mayor of that city asked that a detachment of military be sent to quell the disturbance. The Adjutant-General at once ordered out a company of the Third Regiment, located at Marysville, and they left for the scene of the trouble. Only meager particulars are received. Axtell is a town of 700 people, largely settled by Catholics. A Methodist revival was begun there on Wednesday and the preacher was attacked by the Catholics, and the fight resulted in the preacher and two others being thrown out of the house. The whole town is aroused. Four Catholics are arrested. The Catholics organized this morning. It is reported that the Catholic town of St. Bridget is organizing for the rescue. The Mayor says he is powerless.

Going for the Union Pacific.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—The Government Directors of the Union Pacific report to the Secretary of the Interior that in their judgment the interests of the United States demand early action by Congress to secure the payment of the indebtedness of that road to the government. The general plan of settlement first suggested by the Commissioner of Railroads, they assert, has never been successfully attacked. The Directors fully approve this plan and concur in the recommendations made in the last report by their predecessors. They express a firm conviction that the interests of the United States demand the passage of a bill substantially like that pending when Congress adjourned.

Nothing of Interest.

CHICAGO, Oct. 31.—The proceedings in the trial of the Cronin case this morning were uninteresting. Two witnesses testified to hearing defendant Coughlin say "there is a catholic on the north side who will get done up if he don't keep his mouth shut."

The furniture salesman, Hatman, retold the story of selling the furniture to J. H. Simonds, which was subsequently found in the Carlson cottage. The chief point of interest developed, was that it was furniture in common use, and there were no marks on it to perfectly establish its identity.

Hatman also identified the trunk in which Cronin's body was carried away as identical in appearance with that sold to Simonds.

Another Cashier Missing.

CONSHOHOCK, Penn., Oct. 31.—The Bank Examiner has taken charge of the Tradesman's Bank. The cashier is missing, and there is said to be a shortage of $50,000 in his accounts. The capital of the bank is $100,000.

A notice is posted on the door saying the depositors will lose nothing. The amount of the defalcation may reach $75,000.

The cashier's name is W. H. Cresson. He stood high in social and church circles. The cause is not known.

Another Man-of-War Aground.

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—The United States man-of-war Galena, inward bound, went aground early this morning on Ronger shoal. A tug has been sent to assist her. It is thought she will come off this afternoon, as the sea is smooth. She lies in a bad position.

LATER.—The Galena arrived at the navy yard this afternoon, and her officers report that she is uninjured. An official investigation will be made.

Steam Thresher Victims.

GRAND FORKS, Dak., Oct. 31.—The boiler of a steam threshing engine exploded this morning. Israel Sheppard, the owner, was instantly killed, and engineer Crittenden, the fireman and another man were badly wounded. All may die.

5 O'CLOCK EDITION.

UNDER the heading of "Ten More Doctors," the San Francisco Post says: A medical college in this city has just conferred upon ten young men and women the right to go up and down through the length and breadth of the land with the letters "M. D." appended to their names, and with full license to convert the bodies of their patients, when they get any, into receptacles for various pills and potions. Perhaps, fortunately for the population of California, the newly fledged doctors belong to the homeopathic school, so the terrors of calomel and jalap, of blue mass and black draught, of castor oil and quassa, are not to be so much dreaded, as though some other school of medicine claimed them. The real reason why homeopathy has made such rapid strides during the last few years is that people have come to know that the less medicine they take the better it is for them, and as homeopathy has a decided pull over allopathy in this respect, it has made a wonderful success.

It is probable that the ten new doctors referred to know a great deal more now than they will ten years from now. By that time they will have found out how little they really know of that wonderful piece of mechanism called the human body, and how much less of that indefinite something which we call the mind, and then they will be prepared to give more credit to the recuperative power of nature and less to the art and labors of the physician, which is a very desirable state and condition for the medical profession, as a whole, to reach.

SECRETARY BLAINE struck a most felicitous description of the needs of commerce and sea travel when he said that while the "spoken languages of the world still continue to be many, the unspoken language of the sea must be one." All who "go down to the sea in ships" must, if they would go safely, go with a tongue that all can understand. The Chinese junk must be able to tell the Dutch schuyt intelligibly what it needs, or what both may have to encounter, as the English ocean racer tells its French rival of the chances of the road, so greatly traveled, yet so unknown. The vessels of a score of nations may meet and lie side by side in the same port for weeks and have nothing to say to each other, or be unable to say a thing if they want to. But let them meet at sea, but for the moment they are passing each other, and their signals are as intelligible as "the stars in their courses." That is what the Washington conference aims to aid in accomplishing—the provision of our commercial sea language, spoken by flag, flag, electricity, powder, fog-horn, bell and buoy. It is the one great and absorbing need of commerce. As Mr. Blaine says: "That language must be as universal as the needs of man for commerce and intercourse with his fellow-man."

THE War Department has decided upon a reform in recruiting that is sensible and ought to produce good results. Hereafter the men enlisted are to have the privilege of withdrawing from the service at any time within three weeks from the date of enlistment. This rule, says the Record-Union, will have a tendency to bring men into the service who are now indisposed to bind themselves for a term of years without knowing something about the actual duties of a soldier in time of peace. This class of men are very much above the usual order of recruits. The probationary period will, we believe, rob enlistment of very much of its objection, and remove the fearfulness with which men have approached it.

A Grand Jury like the one recently discharged by Judge Sabin, of the United States District Court, at Carson, which refuses to indict a man for selling whisky to Indians when the offense is clearly proven, should be put on bread and water for ninety days.

FROM the large number of American men-of-war which have got aground recently it would seem to indicate that our Naval School, like West Point, is paying more attention to spelling than anything else.

WONDERS OF THE SEA.

Facts About Sea-Urchins, Star-Fish and Other Queer Creatures.

It is not surprising that the man of science, living in a world of wonders, gazing always eagerly through the microscope or telescope, should differ from the common folk whose eyes look out languidly upon life through a natural or corrective lens. The naturalist particularly, amid the marvels of field, forest, swamp and shore, finding stimulus every day to his worship of the great mystery, reverts to the feelings of childhood. His supreme sense of the sublime felt in the contemplation of the more elusive, thousands accessible to him among the infinite millions of living things—this sense is never faded. Man may be a proper, but he is not the only study of mankind; and it is well for us now and then to be as little children and listen open-eyed to the schoolmaster telling the things we once knew but have forgotten.

There is the sea-urchin to begin with, says the Chicago Times. It looks like a chestnut-burr and is commonly called the sea-chestnut, but it is a fish and has 4,000 feet known as the "ambulacra" feet. Their arrangement permits the urchin to progress in any direction. At the base of each conical tube there is a sac, acting as a reservoir of water. If the urchin wishes to march this sac contracts, the ambulacral foot is distended with water, something like the finger of a glove if you blow into it, the sucker at the end is fixed on the ground, the other ambulacral feet repeat the operation, and the urchin is out for a walk. This creature, so fragile in appearance, is nevertheless able, on rocky coasts where the surf is violent, to pierce the hardest stones and to excavate a lodging for itself, even in granite.

The star-fish we know so well is a kindred creature equally amazing. The white part in the center of it is the stomach. At first sight it has the appearance of a transparent mass divided into five equal parts, and yet it grinds with the power of a grindstone. M. Beaugrand tells of the devastation committed by star-fishes on a bed of mussels. They had settled on them by millions. All the rocks were covered with them, and from a little way off appeared quite red. When a star-fish wanted its breakfast it came dragging along by the aid of its ambulacral feet and rested its stomach on the hinge-joint of the shells of a mussel. In a few minutes, by the action of the gastric juices, the muscles of the hinge were dissolved, the stomach penetrated between the shells of the mussel and carried on there a suction so powerful that in a brief time nothing remained of the mussel. The foot itself, although so difficult to detach, shared the same fate as the other parts. The stomach of the urchin then returned to its normal situation, and the star-fish made a fresh move to satisfy its appetite. So thoroughly was this done that in the course of a few days all the mussels in the locality were exterminated.

The most depraved of the "corsairs of the sea" is the hermit crab, whose very hermitage—the shell it bears upon its back—is stolen. It is a shameless parasite, the personification of laziness. When still young it makes its debut by assassination. Seeking a shell of fitting size it installs itself therein, after having devoured the rightful owner. Then it sets out to make its fortune, pillaging ruthlessly on all sides. When its shell or hermitage becomes too small it promptly steals another. "I am acquainted," says M. Beaugrand, "with a collection in which there is a hermit crab that was found in the tropics and had taken up his abode in a great helmet shell, such as you may see in the window of a natural history dealer. The claws of this hermit measured more than eight inches." M. Beaugrand calls the hermit crab a "hypocritical old fellow."

A word about the cuttle-fish or sepia. Figure to yourself a bag about three inches long, surrounded by a broad border. From this gray and gelatinous body a short tube comes out, and above this is a shapeless head, with two square eyes gleaming like molten gold. Like the octopus the sepia is a great destroyer of crabs and small fish, seizing them with its eight suckers as they pass. It can change its color like the chameleon and by a very simple method. The intestines of the skin there are globules of various colors, and in accordance with the impressions made on the animal these are expanded or contracted, thus producing the strangest effects. It appears also to have the gift of tears. At any rate it is well supplied with highly colored glands. By contracting its tube and ejecting the water contained the cuttle-fish can rebound with great velocity. Then there is the thick, black ink it ejects in self-protection. The ancients scarcely knew of any other ink. Cuvier, M. Beaugrand says, was the last to put the sepia ink to an important use. As a fit whim for a scientific man he made use of it to write his memoir on Cephalopoda and make the drawings.

Another wily and knowing fish is the fishing frog. It is very repulsive in appearance, with a broad body and an enormous mouth, surmounted by two long filaments terminating above in bright, shining surfaces. The fishing frog, buried in the mud, vibrates these filaments above its head until some fish thoughtlessly comes loitering around the novel bait. Then the capacious maw opens, engulfs the victim, and the same game again. Market-women sometimes speculate on the voracity of the fishing frogs, and purchase them at a low price on the strength of what they contain. The fish swallows its prey gluttonously without mastication, and the women often find in its stomach smaller fish, little damaged, which they sell to unobservant customers.

An Unjustifiable Expense. Judge Walton, of the Maine Supreme Court, was one day at work in his office, drawing up an opinion in a knotty and important case, when a brother lawyer, walked in. The visitor was a man for whom the judge entertained a pretty decided dislike. "Well, Brother Lightweight," he said, curtly, "what can I do for you this morning?" "Oh, nothing," answered the caller; "I merely dropped in for a few minutes." A disagreeable silence ensued. Then the judge looked up and asked: "Brother Lightweight, why don't you get married?" "Because I can't afford it. How much do you suppose it costs me to live now?" The judge declared that he could not guess. "Well, it costs me all of six thousand dollars a year just for my own living." "Dear I dear," said the judge, in a tone of astonishment; "why, Lightweight, I wouldn't pay it. It isn't worth it!"

When Ireland Was Scotia. Scotia now means Scotland, but it once meant Ireland. Ireland was known to the Greeks as Juveonia, about two centuries before the birth of Christ. Caesar calls it Hibernia, as does Ptolemy in the map he has given of the island. It is said that the Phenicians first gave Ireland the name of Hibernia, meaning thereby "utmost, or last habitation," for beyond that land, westward, the Phenicians never extended their voyages. Toward the decline of the Roman empire the country began to be called Scotia, a name retained by the monastic writers till the eleventh century, when the name Scotia having passed to modern Scotland, the ancient name of Hibernia began to be again

A Woman's Discovery.

"Another wonderful discovery has been made and that too by a lady in this country. Disease fastened its clutches upon her and for seven years she withstood its severest tests but her vital organs were undermined and death seemed imminent. For three months she coughed incessantly and could not sleep. She bought of us a bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption and was so much relieved on taking the first dose that she slept all night and with one bottle was miraculously cured. Her name is Mrs. Luther Lutz." This write W. C. Hamrick & Co., of Shreveport, La. Get a free trial bottle at S. J. Hodgkinson's Drug Store.

The Best There Is.

A new typewriter has been invented by the party who invented half of the Remington and all of the Caligraph. It has no ribbon, no wooden bars, but is all steel, prints true and without any blur. It costs an even hundred dollars, and is worth two of any other machine. It prints better, works longer, is easier to learn and works faster, besides other recommendations.
C. A. BRAGO, Agent.

There is but little, if any danger from whooping cough, when the cough is kept loose and expectoration easy, which can always be done by the free use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. There is no danger in giving it to children as it contains no injurious substances. For sale by Osburn & Shoemaker.

The Verdict Unanimous.

W. D. Salt, Druggist, Bippus, Ind., testifies: "I can recommend Electric Bitters as the very best remedy. Every bottle sold has given relief in every case. One man took six bottles, and was cured of Rheumatism of 10 years' standing." Abraham Hare, druggist, Belleville, Ohio, affirms: "The best selling medicine I have ever handled in my 20 years' experience, is Electric Bitters." Thousands of others have added their testimony, so that the verdict is unanimous that Electric Bitters do cure all diseases of the Liver, Kidneys or Blood. Only a half dollar a bottle, at S. J. Hodgkinson's drugstore.

"IN SPITE OF ALL."

How Miss Madden is Regarded in Gotham.
The New York Tribune says: The Lyceum Theater opened last night for its second season. A new version of Sardou's "Andrea," by Steele Mackaye was given. It was produced with handsome scenery, and it was received with favor by a crowded house. Miss Madden, acting the heroine, made an unequivocal popular hit. She has earnestness, feeling, strong and various mimetic talent, and she reveals a deeply interesting character. There were several moments during the third act when her expression of emotion was truly beautiful. Miss Madden has displayed such charm of character and such strength and variety of talent as are bright auguries of her future. Such capacity, at once of repose and abandonment, is seldom seen.
To appear this evening at McKissick's Opera House.

Almost the whole of Sennacherib's great palace at Nineveh has now been cleared out, including the library and chambers, and the results are said to be some seventeen hundred new tablets, etc., have been secured for the British Museum.

An Unhealthy Position.

During the 1,000 years of the publication of the Pekin Gazette 1,900 of its editors have been beheaded. There are, says the Tuscarora Times-Review, a number of Pacific Coast journalists who could probably get numerous signed recommendations for positions on the Gazette.

Eight cars of beef cattle, shipped at Iron Point by O. North, arrived here last night and will be reshipped to-night.
The partnership heretofore existing between Judge O. R. Leonard and R. H. Lindsay has been mutually dissolved.

Counterfeit greenbacks are said to be in very general circulation in Oregon and Washington, the large influx of Eastern immigration being the cause.
The White House clothing store is where you want to go for your winter suit, furnishing goods, a stylish hat, overcoat or any other article worn by man or boy.

All who have ever heard "Hazel Kirke" will certainly not miss the companion piece, which is as good in every particular. By all means secure your seats early.

When a good company does come to Reno, theater-goers should sustain it. The GAZETTE has it from reliable authority that Miss Madden's company is worthy the patronage of the best people of Reno.

There will be no lecture in the Congregational Church till to-morrow (Friday) evening, November 1st.
MRS. L. M. W. OWEN.

"STANDING ROOM, ONLY."

Major Hilton makes a lasting impression upon the mind.
The Binghamton (N. Y.) Republican gave George A. Hilton the following eulogistic notice when he lectured in that place in 1887:

The immense audiences that fill the First Congregational Church every evening are convincing evidence of the exceptional power of Major George Hilton as a temperance advocate and orator. Since the series of meetings was inaugurated Sunday evening, the audiences have been increasing in numbers, and the enthusiasm in the cause has been growing. Major Hilton is an orator who possesses the courage of his own conviction, based upon Gospel truths and in the utterances of his convictions and of Gospel truths his genuine earnestness produces a deep impression upon all who hear him.

He is unsparing in his criticisms of the dealers in the rum traffic and the illustrations of the effects of intemperance upon mankind, with which he enforces his arguments, are powerfully drawn and are sermons in themselves. He is a spontaneous and easy orator and by his eloquence sways his audience at will. In these days of trite temperance addresses, it is a genuine pleasure to listen to such vigorous and truthful efforts. The citizens of Binghamton are deeply indebted to the ladies of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union for their enterprise in securing Maj. Hilton to conduct these meetings here.

A SERIOUS BLUNDER.

A Lady Nearly Prostrated by a Patent Medicine.
A lady well-known in the Western Addition has been a great sufferer for years with indigestion and dyspepsia. Struck with the testimonials praising Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla, she sent for a bottle. The druggist, not having it, talked her into taking another sarsaparilla. As the leading sarsaparillas use mineral blood purifiers, the effect of the emptying of iodine of potash into a stomach already disastrously delicate was disastrous, almost prostrating her before the mistake was rectified. She then called upon Mrs. Fowler, of 227 Ellis street, whose name was among those cured by Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla. Mrs. Fowler said it was true that it had cured her. Again reassured, she bought a second compound was sent for and gotten. The gentle action of its vegetable stimulants upon the liver, kidneys and digestive organs, and its warm stomach tonic, were the very things needed, and she began improving and was her old self within a fortnight. This sounds like fiction, but the names can be given if necessary. —San Francisco Examiner.

Croup Can Be Prevented.
We want every mother to know that croup can be prevented. There is no question about this; as it has been done in thousands of cases, and you may depend upon it that when a child takes the croup, it is owing to the negligence of its parents. True croup never appears without due and timely warning; a few hours, or a day before the attack, the child becomes hoarse. This hoarseness is the first indication of croup, and is a sure sign that croup is to follow, unless promptly and properly treated. The free use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy as directed with each bottle, under the heading "To prevent croup" will dispel all symptoms of the disease. For sale by Osburn & Shoemaker.
